Civil War Is Possible: Pompidou

NEWSROOM NOTES —

"It's sad to advise people not to visit their capital," laments Rep. William H. Ayres. "But I don't know what else to tell them."

Like many of his colleagues in Congress, the Ohio Republican has been deluged with letters from the people back home asking if it is safe to visit Washington this summer because of the Poor People's March.

"What do I tell them?" asks Ayres. "If I say come ahead, and something breaks out here, you know who gets the blame. Me."

No one, of course, wants to bring groups of visiting school children into a situation fraught with the potential of violence. Tourists understandably don't want to plan a sightseeing trip that could be marred by transportation tie-ups, picketings and other inconveniences, if not worse.

It is sad to have to advise Americans not to visit their nation's capital, but not for the reason of safety alone.

What is also sad is the existence of people who feel they have been short-changed by society for too long and who have decided that presenting themselves en masse at the center of government will get them what they consider a fair deal.

It is sad that, for many of us, our first reaction is to forget that these people are American citizens and to think of them rather as alien, threatening intrusion.

It is sad to realize that pleasant visits to Washington in the past did not mean that everything was all right with the Republic but merely that ills that were out of sight were out of mind.

It is sad that there is so much fear and distrust and frustration among Americans, and so much ready recourse to civil disorder, that today any public demonstration carries the threat of degenerating into another riot.

What is saddest of all is that a congressman cannot reply to our letters: "Sure come ahead. Meet your fellow Americans, mingle with them. Find out what kind of people they are and hear what they have to say."

Treasurer at Brinkmeier Dinner

State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III spoke Friday night at a testimonial dinner for Rep. Robert E. Brinkmeier, D-Forreston at the V.F.W. Hall, Mount Morris. More than 300 persons attended the dinner for the incumbent representative who is seeking reelection to the 35th Illinois House District.

James McCaslin, Rochelle city councilman, center, is shown above talking with State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III, left, and Rep. Robert E. Brinkmeier, D-Forreston, during a testimonial dinner for the representative held in Mount Morris. Stevenson said Brinkmeier is "the kind of man we need back in the Legislature to keep good state government."

AT BRINKMEIER DINNER

Continued Support Of Demos Is Urged

By TOM GIORDANO

MOUNT MORRIS — State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III, Friday called for continued "good Democratic leadership in national and state governments to meet the modern-day problems now facing us."

The state treasurer's remarks came during a testimonial dinner at the VFW Hall here where some 315 persons met to pay tribute to State Rep. Robert E. Brinkmeier, D-Forreston, who is seeking re-election to the 35th Illinois House District.

Stevenson, who earlier in the day came out to officially endorse Vice President Hubert Humphrey in his bid for the presidency, and who was criticized by Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley for being "premature" declined to hold a formal news conference. Daley told newsmen the state treasurer "should have waited for the national convention to formally endorse any presidential candidate."

Criticizes Interference
At the Ogle County Brinkmeier dinner, Stevenson was critical of Republican interference in the Legislature which, he said, prevented solid revenue-raising measures proposed by former Gov. Otto Kerner from materializing.

"Instead, we had to accept a tax increase for personal services, then watch the unconstitutional taxation knocked out by the supreme court."

"Because of that, Illinois, which has the highest sales tax in the United States, is approaching a state of insolvency and that is one of the reasons why we need men like Rep. Brinkmeier back in the Legislature," Stevenson asserted.

The state treasurer, however, made it crystal clear that he was not at the dinner-meeting to officially endorse Brinkmeier in replying to a query by newsmen.

Brinkmeier My Friend
Stevenson did say during his speech, that "Brinkmeier is my friend and yours; and he is really the kind of fellow we need in the House of Representatives to continue having good state government."

Stevenson said if the Democrats are to continue establishing a whole range of sound programs as "we have done in the past, we must adapt to the changes for we are entering a whole new concept in politics in American life."

He asserted the old programs were fine for problems which existed years ago, but that because of the unrest and resistance minority groups are making to the status quo, new men with new ideas to meet the new challenges are also needed.

"Patronage is getting less potent as a political tool; there is a steady influx of people from large cities which heretofore was a source of strength for Democrats, into the suburbs where Republicans predominate," Stevenson said.

He told those present that there "is no cause for concern, though. Because we will adapt to the changes."

Spirits Damp, City Stands

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The poor people of Resurrection City emerged today from their saturated plywood huts looking for an end to rains that drenched their campsite but only mildly dampened their spirits.

All but a few of the 2,800 residents of the prefabricated village chose to remain in their temporary homes Friday night rather than seek shelter in warm church basements offered them. But today they faced a formidable task in making their encampment livable again.

Even the mud and discomfort failed to stop the poor from continuing their nonviolent cooperation with the government Friday. They managed to recruit 75 marchers for another pilgrimage to the Agriculture Department and a spirited demonstration outside the residence of Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

March To Agriculture
The Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago, a campaign leader and "city manager" of the encampment, led the marchers to the doorstep of the agriculture department "because our people are starving in a land of plenty."

Jackson then led more than 100 demonstrators in two buses to Mills' apartment house only to find that Mills, 59 Friday, had just left to attend a birthday party in his honor elsewhere. The group stayed to picket the entrance to the building.

Before returning to the campsite, the demonstrators sang a spirited chorus of happy birthday to Mills, but followed it with loud boos.

Mills is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and the marchers blame his panel for a freeze on federal matching funds granted states for aid to dependent children. The freeze plan limits the number of eligible children to the total of the rolls as of last January 1.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, visited the encampment in a gray Cadillac sedan driven by a staff member. He told reporters and television cameramen that "Resurrection City is here to stay. We ain't going to let nobody or nothing turn us around."

With that, he left to fly to New York city to confer with Bayard Rustin of the A. Philip Randolph Institute on plans for the mass march in Washington June 19. Rustin is organizing the march.

Rustin later told a news conference conditions under which he will take charge of the "National Day of Conscience" demonstration had been agreed upon. He said the mobilization would announce later the demands to be symbolized by the demonstration.

Orders Police To Break Up Crowds

By ALLAN A. PRIAULX

PARIS (UPI)—Premier Georges Pompidou said today professional agitators, anarchists and ruffians were trying to start a civil war in France. He ordered police to break up all crowds—an act that suspended the right of assembly.

President Charles de Gaulle himself warned Friday night in a nationwide television broadcast the nation was moving toward civil war. His speech was followed by nine hours of rioting by tens of thousands of persons throughout France.

Two persons were reported killed in the fighting and hundreds injured and arrested.

With the nation paralyzed by a strike of 10 million workers and torn by student and workers demonstrations against the government, there was growing belief the De Gaulle era was nearing an end. Newspapers in Western Europe spoke openly of a new revolution in France.

Meets Union Leaders

Pompidou was meeting today with union leaders in an effort to meet their demands—the first time in 32 years the government has capitulated to union demands for direct talks with the government. The last time was during the upsurge of Communism in Western Europe after the depression.

De Gaulle asked the nation Friday night for emergency powers to revise France's economic, social and educational structure and said he would resign if he did not receive a massive vote of confidence in a June referendum. He was answered in the street with cries of "De Gaulle resign!" and demands for higher wages despite his wage freeze.

But it appeared his grip on the nation was weakening. London newspapers, bitter because of his anti-British, anti-American and anti-NATO statements in recent years, said he had lost touch with the French people. Other European newspapers said he had lost control, that a new French revolution was in the making.

Pompidou, who barely survived a vote of confidence in the National Assembly earlier in the week, held a series of emergency conferences including one with De Gaulle.

Issues Statement

He issued a series of statements in which he said crowds would be broken up "with the greatest energy" and that action would be taken "without any weakness and without delay."

"The government is certain that the population, which knows that our duty is to defend its security and its well being, will understand the absolute necessity to put an end without delay to subversive agitation," Pompidou said.

"There were evident attempts to start civil war," Pompidou said. "Security forces received instructions to destroy barricades, disperse demonstrators and occupy the main streets held by the rioters."

This was particularly true in Lyon where Police Inspector Rene Lacroix was killed when his head was bashed in by rioters. Another death reported was in Paris where Philippe Metherion, 26, was stabbed to death during an argument among the demonstrators. Pompidou stressed this was not attributable to the security forces—themselves angered by charges of police brutality.

The unrest started with student demonstrations over typical student grievances. But below the apparently tranquil surface seethed a volcanic mass of workers' resentment against soaring living costs, frozen wages, long working hours, slashed social security benefits and mounting unemployment. All these difficulties were blamed on De Gaulle's straight-jacket economic policies.

The Trigger

The student riots were only the trigger. The fuel for the explosion was the underlying resentment of millions of French workers who believed De Gaulle had sacrificed their living standards to a policy of grandeur abroad. In less than three weeks the strong man Gaullist regime was trembling on the brink of disaster.

Six hours before Pompidou made his statement to the press riot police had crushed in the streets from Paris to the Riviera the first reply of Frenchmen to De Gaulle's demand they choose between him and civil war.

Mass Pickets At Bell Plants

CHICAGO (AP)—Mass picketing of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. headquarters was called for today by the striking International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as negotiators failed again to reach an agreement to end the 18-day-old strike.

Negotiators met twice with federal mediators Friday in the second attempt this week to end the strike by 11,800 linemen, installers and repairmen.

Afterwards, an IBEW spokesman said wives, children and relatives would participate in mass picketing today.

Union representatives rejected the company's offer of a three-year contract with wage increase of $26 a week for top rated workers, saying they are only interested in discussing the next 18 months of their present contract.

The union is asking for a $19.50-a-week hike immediately, plus an additional $10 a week during the last six months of the contract.

The IBEW strike began two days after an 18-day strike by operators and clerks represented by the Communications Workers of America. Electricians honored CWA picket lines during the earlier strike.

An Illinois Bell spokesman said top-rated workers have lost $834 each in wages since the strikes began.

HARRIMAN'S JOB:

Have Hanoi Admit Troops In South

PARIS (AP) — The United States intends to step up pressure on Hanoi's negotiators in the Paris talks to admit that thousands of North Vietnamese troops are fighting in South Vietnam.

"How can we ever get anywhere in these discussions," said one official, "if we can't even agree on the basic facts we have to deal with."

North Vietnam has up to now denounced any suggestions that it had forces in the South.

Some experts here believe North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong may have made a basic move toward a concession on that point Friday when he said in a speech in Hanoi: "Where ever the enemy exists our Vietnamese people have the right to go there and fight him."

This stopped short of admitting that northern troops had gone into the South but provided a basis for such a concession later—probably much later.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese representative, will meet again Monday after a four-day recess, to open their third week of talks. But U.S. authorities are now predicting heavy enemy offensive thrusts and more hard fighting in South Vietnam as the Communists strive to strengthen their position at the conference table.

That position at the moment is a very tough one, and so is the American stand.

Thuy says the United States must end all attacks against the North unconditionally. Harriman says the Hanoi government must cut back its infiltration of men and supplies into the South.

At this point, in Harriman's view, the issue of North Vietnamese troops in the South becomes acute. If North Vietnam persists in covering up its presence there with virtual denials, how can it deal with the U.S. demand to stop sending down so many men.

U.S. estimates have put the number of North Vietnamese fighting men in the South at around 85,000. The United States not only wants to reduce the flow of replacements or reinforcements, it also wants to get North Vietnamese agreement in any final peace settlement to pull all its troops out.

From the U.S. point of view the infiltration problem is at the heart of the present phase of talks, just as the end of the bombing is the key problem in Hanoi's view.

Harriman and Thuy are slowly moving toward a showdown over the issue. President Johnson said in Washington Thursday that he would not allow any defeat in the field to make a mockery of the talks here.

A North Vietnamese spokesman attacked U.S. good faith at a Paris news conference Friday saying that the United States was intensifying the war while talking a great deal about negotiating for peace.

He attacked Harriman as "perfidious and obstinate," prompting U.S. spokesman William J. Jordan to reply: "We don't feel we're obstinate. We know we're not perfidious."

Jordan added, "The sooner we stop throwing adjectives around and come to grips with real issues, the sooner we'll get something done."

In his Hanoi speech, Pham Van Dong said Thuy would stand firm in Paris on his government's terms for peace. The statement, taken literally, seemed to rule out any progress in negotiations here. But U.S. officials rejected any suggestion the talks were doomed and so did North Vietnamese spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le.

Compton Store May Close Soon

COMPTON — Backbone of the Compton community for 62 years, the Grocery and General Merchandise Store at the corner of Cherry and Third Streets here seems destined to close soon.
Glenn Lamoreux, proprietor, began work Monday as a cookie and cracker road salesman for Schulze and Burch Baking Co., Rockford. Efforts over the past year to find a successor of "Lamoreux's Store" have failed and it looks as though Compton will lose its last major lifeline.
The building, constructed following a business district fire in 1906, was known originally as the Compton Mercantile Company. In 1919, John Archer purchased the business from Joseph Kaufman. Later operated by Henry Chaon and Sons, the establishment was turned over to Lamoreux in June 1954.
The modernized grocery department is equipped with coolers and freezers to accommodate a large assortment of frozen and dairy products along with the staple goods. Lamoreux stated, "One of the problems in the general merchandise line is that you can't buy clothing and those items (indicating shelves filled with dry goods, shoes, clothes and novelties) in small amounts anymore."
Lamoreux's is one of two stores remaining from about 15 businesses which thrived here in the early 1900's. The other, Bradley's Market and Lockers, is also in state of transition with the passage of the new slaughtering law and departure of Gene Bradley, partner in the store.
Gene, living at Eau Claire, Wis., since Easter, has accepted a position in the meat department of the Co-op Shopping Center, Eau Claire. His family plans to move there in June.

Slam Bidding Very Scientific

North's two-spade bid shows a minor two suiter of indefinite strength. South's three club bid merely announces that his clubs are at least as good as his diamonds. North's three heart call shows help in hearts, if his partner wants to try three no-trump. It also infers a singleton spade and is a force to game.
South's bid of three spades happens to be a slam try. North can't be sure that it isn't saying South has spades stopped, two or more times so North merely goes to three no-trump.
This puts it up to South once more and he bids four clubs. This shows that South's three spade call was a cue bid to show the ace and that South is definitely interested in a club slam.
North might jump to six clubs but he has been bitten by the science bug and bids four diamonds to show that ace. South replies with four hearts to show the ace of hearts and by this time North has had enough. He bids six clubs.
There is nothing to the play at six clubs. All South has to do is to knock out the ace of trumps, draw the rest of the trumps and spread his hand. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Today's hand is very much like yesterday's. South has exactly the same cards and North has the same except for the king of hearts instead of a small one.
The combination of an opening no-trump plus partner's 11 high card points is not likely to produce a slam and most pairs using ordinary methods would probably wind up in three no-trump.
The artificial bidding sequence shown in the box illustrates the scientific way to reach a slam.

LOOKING AROUND

By E. G.

A happy May 25th to you . . . and did you know that on this date, in 1787, the United States Constitutional Convention convened at Philadelphia . . . "We, The People," by Forrest McDonald, provides good reading for those interested in our Constitution — how it was drafted — the why's and wherefore's . . . the American Revolution had ended three years previous to the call for delegates to meet in Philadelphia to revise and strengthen the Articles of the Confederation which were to be submitted to the legislature for approval.

Those attending the convention had not been given authority to create a new instrument of government . . . deciding their articles would not be approved — they set up their own method of ratification through special ratifying conventions . . . technically, they never signed the Constitution, nor did they have the authority to do so . . . they merely attested to the fact of its having been drafted.

John Hancock, Samuel Adams and Patrick Henry fought it bitterly . . . Benjamin Franklin has been quoted as saying, "This instrument will end in tyranny," and other predicted "give us 200 years and the people will end in despotism." . . . happy thought — those 200 years are almost up.

Posies to . . . the Fred Hofmanns, celebrating their "umpteenth" wedding anniversary, the 27th — and ditto for the Ben T. Shaws on the same date.

News from around the world . . . the Beirut, Lebanon, Daily Star quotes President Banda of Malawi as saying: "disobedient children should be whipped — young people overseas are pampered far too much and as a result expect everything for nothing" . . . "in Malawi children are taught to respect their elders and to obey and if they don't, whip them — it doesn't do any harm." . . . the same edition carried a story of a 40 year old Moscow woman who can make objects move just by looking at them . . . she can make a clock stop — objects jump off a table — or feed herself by merely wishing food into her mouth . . . Russian scientists call it "telekinetics" . . . others might refer to it as a marvelous secret weapon . . . think of all the possibilities — imagine being able to wish any one person or a multitude to go jump in the lake or off a cliff.

The Egyptian Gazette carries a column similar to our "Things Dixon Talked About" . . . in the 60 years ago paragraph were instructions concerning use of the telephone . . . "when one wishes to communicate one turns the handle quickly once or twice — then puts the receiver to the ear and waits for operator who will answer without ringing. Ask for number, wait reply, with receiver always at ear. When one is called, place receiver to ear, without ringing back, and just commence conversation."

Make Plans for Sesquicentennial

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle Interclub Sesquicentennial Committee met Monday noon at the Beacon to hear reports from project chairmen. In an earlier session, the committee had selected chairmen as follows: General chairman, Cris Swanson, Jaycees; promotion and publicity, Wayne Gossman, Chamber of Commerce; pageant, Gladys Myers, Rochelle Women's Clubs; activities, Don Carlson, Lions; manpower, Harvey Seebach, Kiwanis; parade, Les Kvool, Jaycees; city liaison, John Havens, deputy city clerk. Project chairmen reported that a series of kickoff meetings had taken place in every project area. Project committees are made up of representatives of nearly every civic organization in Rochelle.

The parade chairman, Les Kvool, reported that initial contacts were being made for parade participants with a big helping hand from the VFW. Although no plans have been finalized, preliminary plans are to slate a parade along the Old Indian Trail, starting at Lincoln School and ending at Vaughn's Grove. Parade committee members are optimistic about good participation.

Activities chairman, Don Carlson reported an activities schedule had been set to run from 2:30 p.m. to dark on June 30 at Vaughn's Grove. Among the activities planned are: Greased pig race, band concert, horse-shoe-pitching contest, ice cream social, judo demonstrations, tractor pull, German band, children's competitions such as sack races, etc.; all-day carnival, horse show, pie-eating contest, and one of the major highlights — a paganat retracing our history from 1818 to be presented on-stage mid-afternoon. An afternoon and evening meal will be served. Area industries are cooperating to allow a very inexpensive meal to be available with ample picnic tables. Additional activities will develop as groups are contacted for participation.

Any civic clubs, service clubs, churches or other organizations wishing to participate in the parade or celebration activities are urged to contact the Chamber of Commerce office at 562-4189.

Promotion Chairman Wayne Gossman, reported official Sesquicentennial Plaques, bowties and scarves will be offered for sale at reasonable prices through the Chamber office starting June 1. Banners and pennants will be placed around town heralding the event, and the press, radio and TV have pledged full support to promotion of the June 30 celebration.

Project chairmen will release news of developments at frequent intervals to keep the public fully aware of their progress.

Mrs. George Butts, Freeport, 13th District director, was unable to attend because of two recent deaths. The nominating committee had been unable to secure a full slate of officers for presentation that evening so election was set for the June 17 meeting preceding installation.

Knauer reported $75 received at the recent coffee hour and bake sale. Mrs. Ray Bresson reported 20 May baskets delivered by her and Mrs. Richard Dolan, rehabilitation chairmen. Meeting Held By Historical Society

ROCHELLE — Daniel Holt, director of Field Services of the Illinois State Historical Society, was guest speaker at a meeting of the newly formed Flagg Township Historical Society held Tuesday in the First National Bank club rooms.

His address followed a short introductory talk by Franklin Kruger, chairman of the local historical society.

Holt stated if the society is successful in obtaining the old city and town hall, and preserving it as a historical museum, the community would be fortunate, because the building is unique, centrally located, ideal in size, close to main highways, and needs very little restoration, compared to many other historical landmarks that other societies have saved, and restored for use as museums.

Holt said that he agreed with the decision of the local society to accept responsibility for trying to raise funds on a voluntary basis to restore the 1884 city and town hall rather than suggesting the city tax money be used for restoration. He said that all detailed plans for restoration should be done by the society itself.

Large numbers of people with cultural interests, Holt said, are looking for small town museums and unique architecture. He explained that a survey showed the average traveler in the nation, who stops in a city to visit a museum spends over $11 in the community.

He told of cities where large numbers of junior and senior high school students, are interested in historical societies, and history clubs in schools, because the students have opportunities to do things that are constructive and interesting. Holt stated if the city had a historical museum there would be many local and out of town school groups attracted to it. He said that rotating exhibits would create more interest, in that many of these things could be obtained free of charge.

The Flagg Township Historical Society, Holt explained, should tell the story of the local area — its people, business concerns, industries, farming, etc. He said it should collect, preserve and communicate the heritage of the past — even what has happened in recent years.

Kruger, chairman of the local historical society, said the first reports of the membership drive of the society were encouraging and he expressed the hope that many more good people and organizations would offer their support, to a worthy cause.

Nixon Bandwagon Losing Speed

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

PORTLAND, Ore. (NEA) — A nationwide NEA survey of potential Republican convention delegate strength shows presidential candidate Richard Nixon holding strong front position, without real gain, while Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has made a modest advance.

In a late March NEA count of delegates, Nixon had an indicated 699 votes — 32 more than the 667 needed for nomination at Miami Beach in August. The new poll gives him a nearly identical 701.

Rockefeller, at the very moment of his March 21 pullout, was considered to have 377. The just completed count gives him 45 more, for a total of 422—substantial, but still well off a winning pace.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, still an undeclared candidate though now the beneficiary of a 22 per cent vote in Nebraska's primary, runs up a potential 149 votes in the new county. He drew 147 in the first survey.

Rockefeller's most notable gains appear in Michigan, Kansas and New Jersey. He has smaller pickups in Hawaii, some of the Mountain states, Iowa, Illinois and New England.

His surprise capture of 34 Massachusetts delegates through a write-in primary victory April 30, the same day he announced formal candidacy, had in effect been discounted by NEA's earlier poll. It awarded him 30 on the judgment he would get them once "favorite son" Gov. John Volpe loosed his expected hold on the delegation. Volpe, beaten in the write-in, never gained that hold.

Had the New York governor jumped into the race March 21, he might be moving toward a still higher delegate total. His decision not to go, and to stay out of all primaries, clearly damaged him in some quarters.

Some "soft" Nixon votes solidified for the front-runner as Rockefeller supporters became discouraged here and there. Governors Spiro Agnew of Maryland and Tom McCall of Oregon, who had gone out on a long limb for Rocky, were angered. Agnew today is throwing out tentative lines to Nixon, though the later has not yet pressed to alter the 22-to-4 Maryland delegate count favoring Rockefeller.

Rockefeller has lost ground in Minnesota, Alaska, Washington. His failure to enter primaries automatically awarded Oregon and South Dakota to Nixon, though Reagan is something of a threat to the former vice president in Oregon. A costly television and advertising campaign is being mounted for the California governor here.

Yet the stringing thing is that Rockefeller did not collapse altogether in his March 21-April 30 "dry period," and that Nixon did not simply run away with the contest.

In the earlier NEA poll, the general judgment was offered that a considerable part of the Nixon total was soft and fluid. The key to this was concern among both leaders and party rank and file over Nixon's electability in November. The "we want a winner" theme was dominant.

The new poll seems to confirm that prior finding. Some of Nixon's indicated vote in March has been pried away. Rockefeller gains 20 in Michigan, 10 in Kansas (previously listed uncommitted), and eight in New Jersey. But Nixon's advances elsewhere pulled him back to a level a shade higher than before.

The net of this cross-hatching movement, however, is to suggest that Nixon, for all his evident immense lead, is not developing fresh momentum. To some experienced politicians, maintenance of momentum is crucial to a candidate's nomination prospects.

There is danger for Nixon in this development, especially when it is coupled with national public opinion polls showing him doing less well than Rockefeller against the three leading Democratic contenders.

This reporter's newest coast-to-coast checks indicate places where more and more delegates could be broken off from Nixon's total by a rising Rockefeller assault. He could squeeze out more in Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, and a bit here and there in the West.

Any large crack in the Nixon delegate facade could start a serious crumbling process. Inquiries make it plain that many GOP leaders, including some who tend to favor Nixon, fear just this. Curiously, they are not wholly reassured by polls which show him as well as Rocky beating their prospective Democratic rivals. A deep-seated worry appears to grip many Republicans.

Nevertheless, no top party figure is quite sure what combination of factors — high Rockefeller poll showings, strong endorsements, evidence of rising public excitement — might develop to create the cracking pressure Rockefeller needs to make real strides. There is motion in the race, but it has not boiled into a tide.

Nixon and his highly skilled political agents and allies are not idle in the face of this prospect of danger. They are trying to harden his vote potential in the areas of his heaviest strength — the South, the West, the Middle East.

The threat in some of these places is not Rockefeller directly — but Reagan. Very real voters sentiment for him in South and West seeks outlet. Yet pro-Nixon leaders have thus far managed to suppress much of it, and believe they can squeeze it down even tighter if the Rockefeller challenge grows stronger. A wide judgment is that Reagan's potential would break into the open only if Nixon were collapsing.

In the end, Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, favorite son and temporary guardian of most of his state's 58 votes, may be the key to watch. If he moves to Nixon, the latter's great potential will be transformed into irresistible victory. If he heads toward Rocky, it will be a sign Nixon has crumbled and another tide is flowing.

The Mature Parent

I have told you that my British husband served in Britain's armed forces in World War II. So that you know.

What you may not know is that a British soldier's dependents' allowance is considerably less than in America. And is lessened again when exchanged for American dollars. So, at the outbreak of World War II, I had to find a job to earn money sufficient to keep me and my very young child alive.

To earn it I had to locate a situation which would protect her in my absence. I failed to do it. Oh, I found the job! I wrote radio programs for psychiatrists on good parenthood. One after another of those protective situations fell apart — situations which included everything from boarding houses through day nurseries to a boarding-school whose cost denied me train fare to visit my baby for nearly a year. I spent most of my inward time wishing, God knows how often, that I were an African mother, one whose society permits her to carry her baby on her back as she works. But this mercy, of course, was not granted to me by my society.

Thus, at the end of World War II, I was as licked as the Nazis. I mention these multiple and anguished defeats suffered by me, a white mother, a White Anglo-Saxon Protestant WASP, for only one purpose — to assure that I know what is suffered by black mothers who, for this reason or that, must work to keep life in their babies' bodies.

Dear Ann Landers: The person who wrote that millions of American housewives are largely responsible for the shortage of domestic help hit the nail squarely on the head. I have done housework for 20 years and I'd like to add a few words.

It's not only the ridiculous wages women pay household help, it's what they expect in the way of services. Some women who hire housekeepers don't know that mowing grass, raking leaves, washing the car, putting on and removing screens, shoveling snow, nursing care, shortening hems and sleeves are not housework. Neither is chauffeuring kids, repairing plumbing and shampooing the dog.

What some women expect a maid to do is unbelievable, but that's not the worst of it. The way they treat domestic help is nothing short of insulting.

I worked in a place where the woman of the house complained so bitterly about the cost of food I felt guilty every time I ate a mouthful. Madame used to put notes on things in the icebox, such as "Leave this salami alone, Irma, it's for lunch tomorrow." That same evening they'd have three couples in and drink up $30 worth of Scotch.

So please tell your vast reading audience that if they are having a hard time finding domestic help, it's largely because they didn't treat help right when they had it. I know because I quit housework seven years ago and I'd starve before I'd go back to it. — I.L.

Dear I.L.: I received a mountain of mail from former housekeepers who said the same thing. You said it best. Thanks for writing. If there's another side to this story, I'd like to hear it.

Dear Ann Landers: I was married last year to a boy I grew up with. He was very set in his ways but I was sure I could live with his stubbornness. I do love him, but I need some advice on a serious problem.

My grandmother made her home with us when Grandpa died. I was 11 at the time and Grandma was just wonderful to us kids.

Now that I am married and have a little bungalow of my own I have invited Grandma to come visit us for a week. She lives 200 miles away. We have a lovely guest bedroom and adjoining bath and she wouldn't be in the way at all.

My husband told me yesterday he can't stand old people and if Grandma accepts the invitation he is going fishing with his buddies and it will be considered his summer vacation. This means the vacation we planned together is off.

When I told him I thought his attitude was disgraceful he said, "Everyone has a pet hate and old people happen to be mine." Please tell me what to do, Ann. — NELL

Dear Nell: So he has a pet hate and it happens to be old people? What does he think will happen to him when HE gets old? Will he ask someone to shoot him?

Your husband has a lot of growing up to do. Tell him you hope Grandma accepts your invitation and if he wants to go fishing to go.

Confidential to Ace of Hearts: Please don't send your picture. And I don't want any "testimonials." If you are that handsome and desirable how come you need help from me?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) — In his middle 40s, Dean Adams Andrews Jr. is a roly-poly attorney who wears dark glasses constantly and talks in the rhythmic riddles of the hippie generation.

Until last year, he was an assistant district attorney of Jefferson Parish, the burgeoning bedroom of New Orleans which adjoins Jim Garrison's jurisdiction in Orleans Parish.

Now he is a convicted perjurer appealing an 18-month sentence imposed after a New Orleans jury said he lied about his knowledge of a mysterious voice on the telephone which Andrews identified as that of "Clay Bertrand."

He told the Warren Commission that he was in a New Orleans hospital when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated and that, within hours of the murder, he received a call from a man he knew as Bertrand.

Bertrand, he related, asked him to represent Lee Harvey Oswald, a request which became academic when Carousel Club proprietor Jack Ruby shot Oswald down in the basement of the Dallas jail.

The Bertrand revelation became much more than academic to the Garrison case during March of last year when 25-year-old Baton Rouge insurance man Perry R. Russo (Garrison's star witness to date) raised his hand over the white-thatched head of Clay L. Shaw at a preliminary hearing.

Shaw, charged by Garrison as a conspirator in Kennedy's death, sat impassively while Russo identified him as "Clem Bertrand," the man he overheard plotting Kennedy's death with Lee Harvey Oswald and onetime airline pilot David W. Ferrie.

The meeting, he said, took place in the apartment where Ferrie was found dead early last year. The time was in September, 1963, less than two months before Kennedy was shot to death, Russo testified.

Three judges agreed there was enough evidence to hold Shaw for trial. The grand jury indicted him and, in another action, charged Andrews with perjury because he refused to agree that Bertrand and Shaw were the same man.

Ex-DA Lied To Protect Shaw

eager crowds of newsmen and peering through his blue-smoked glasses, had made two appearances before that same grand jury. In one he said he could not connect Bertrand and Shaw with any certainty because Shaw seemed to be "a taller cat than the other one." Bertrand he had met, Andrews related to the grand jury, at a "gay wedding."

And that was significant, because, in the swinging talk of New Orleans, gay does not mean happy. It means homosexual, the same kind of company in which Andrews told the Warren Commission he first met Oswald.

Oswald and his Russian wife, Marina, were living in this city during the summer of 1963, and Andrews said he first encountered the man who was named as Kennedy's assassin when Oswald came to his office on the 10th floor of a Canal Street building to seek legal counsel.

Oswald was accompanied by a "Mexican guy with a butch haircut," Andrews told the commission, plus some "gay kids." Oswald, he added, did not appear to be gay, but "you can't tell. He is not effeminate; his voice isn't squeaky; he didn't walk and talk like a girl."

But Oswald, said Andrews, "swang with the kids. He didn't swish, but birds of a feather flock together."

The Bertrand revelations excited speculation over the significance of the pseudonym if that is, indeed, what it was. There are several prevalent theories. The most quoted now is that the name Clem (or Clay) Bertrand is taken from that of Bertrand de Agous, the first French Pope who reigned over the Catholic Church in the early 1300s. Bertrand de Agous, who chose the name Clement I, was the patron of undesirables.

A New Orleans jury, despite direct denials by Andrews that Bertrand is Shaw (Shaw, himself, has declared publicly he never used the name) agreed with the grand jury and convicted the tubby attorney on five counts.

What other revelations Garrison may have must await the trial of Shaw.

RFK's Brood Too Much for White House

By NOEL GROVE

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Thomas Jefferson proclaimed it large enough to hold "two emperors, one Pope and the grand lama."

Abigail Adams had so much space that she hung clothes out to dry in the East Room.

But Calvin Coolidge found it necessary to add a floor for guest rooms and family storage. And Mrs. John F. Kennedy fretted over where to put an expected third child.

Would the White House hold a family of 13 that makes exuberant activity almost a fetish and collects animals like some people collect buttons or stamps?

If the winds of campaign fortune blow in Robert F. Kennedy's direction, will the first family have a housing problem?

Not likely. There are rooms in the little-discussed third floor added in Coolidge's administration that are seldom used as living quarters. Blair House across the street now serves as the President's official guest house.

Where sleeping room is concerned, the White House could easily hold a family as large as the Kennedys. It simply has never been put to the test.

Presidential families have traditionally quartered on the second floor, which means about as much space as a four- or five-bedroom home.

First floor is mostly ceremonial rooms used on state occasions, and hardly suitable for family living anyway, since several hundred tourists troop through daily. Below that level is the ground floor, with the diplomatic entrance and reception area, offices and work rooms.

Third floor, however, set back from the front and hidden from street view by the railing around the top, includes six bedrooms and three others that could easily be converted into bedrooms.

Also on the third floor is the solarium that has served in a variety of roles. For Eisenhower, it was a painting studio. It served as a school room for Caroline Kennedy and a teen-age rec room for Luci Baines Johnson.

Housing problems, it would appear, are the least of the concerns of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy at this point.

"If the White House isn't big enough," he said at a recent news conference, "we'll move people out of the State Department."

Son Michael, 19, was quoted as saying recently: "We have been told that if daddy is elected president we can still go right on living here."

"Here" is Hickory Hill, the current Kennedy home in near-by McLean, Va., where life, by all accounts, is a showcase of 20-karat vitality. The touch football games in which everyone participates are already history. There are also tennis courts, a swimming pool, stables, horse jumps and general free-lance adventuring, in which everyone takes part. A neighbor, the story goes, once told of trying to catch Kennedy kids in the act of swinging from one of their tree branches onto his garage roof. Waiting inside the garage, he finally heard one small bump on the roof, then another — and then a large thump!

Rushing outside, he found himself looking up at two small Kennedys and an attorney general.

As for active youngsters, the White House has seen them before. Theodore Roosevelt's sons, Quentin and Archie, and their chums performed exploits that read like a Li'l Rascals movie script.

They used Andrew Jackson's portrait for spitball target practice.

They held bicycle races on the ground-floor corridor, had water-gun fights in the East Room.

They turned on a south lawn fountain while workmen were repairing it; shot at an alley cat with homemade bows and arrows.

That with two youngsters and their friends, as compared with soon-to-be 11 little Kennedys.

Then there is the animal thing with the Kennedys. A recent census at Hickory Hill showed an animal population that included two horses, three ponies, a donkey, 10 ducks, five chickens, five rabbits, four pigeons, several sparrows, a parakeet, a cockatoo, goldfish, some snakes and four dogs.

At last word, snake and goose quarters were hard to come by in the presidential manse. Even so, the White House has a long history of boarding pets.

Woodrow Wilson grazed sheep on the White House lawn during World War I, to free young workmen for duty on the fighting front. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge had two pet raccoons.

The Marquis de Lafayette, French hero of the American Revolution, boarded a gift alligator on the White House first floor during a return visit to the young nation several years later.

As for outdoor life, there are 18 acres on the White House grounds. More spacious than Hickory Hill but, as for privacy, about as comparable as Coney Island is to the African veldt.

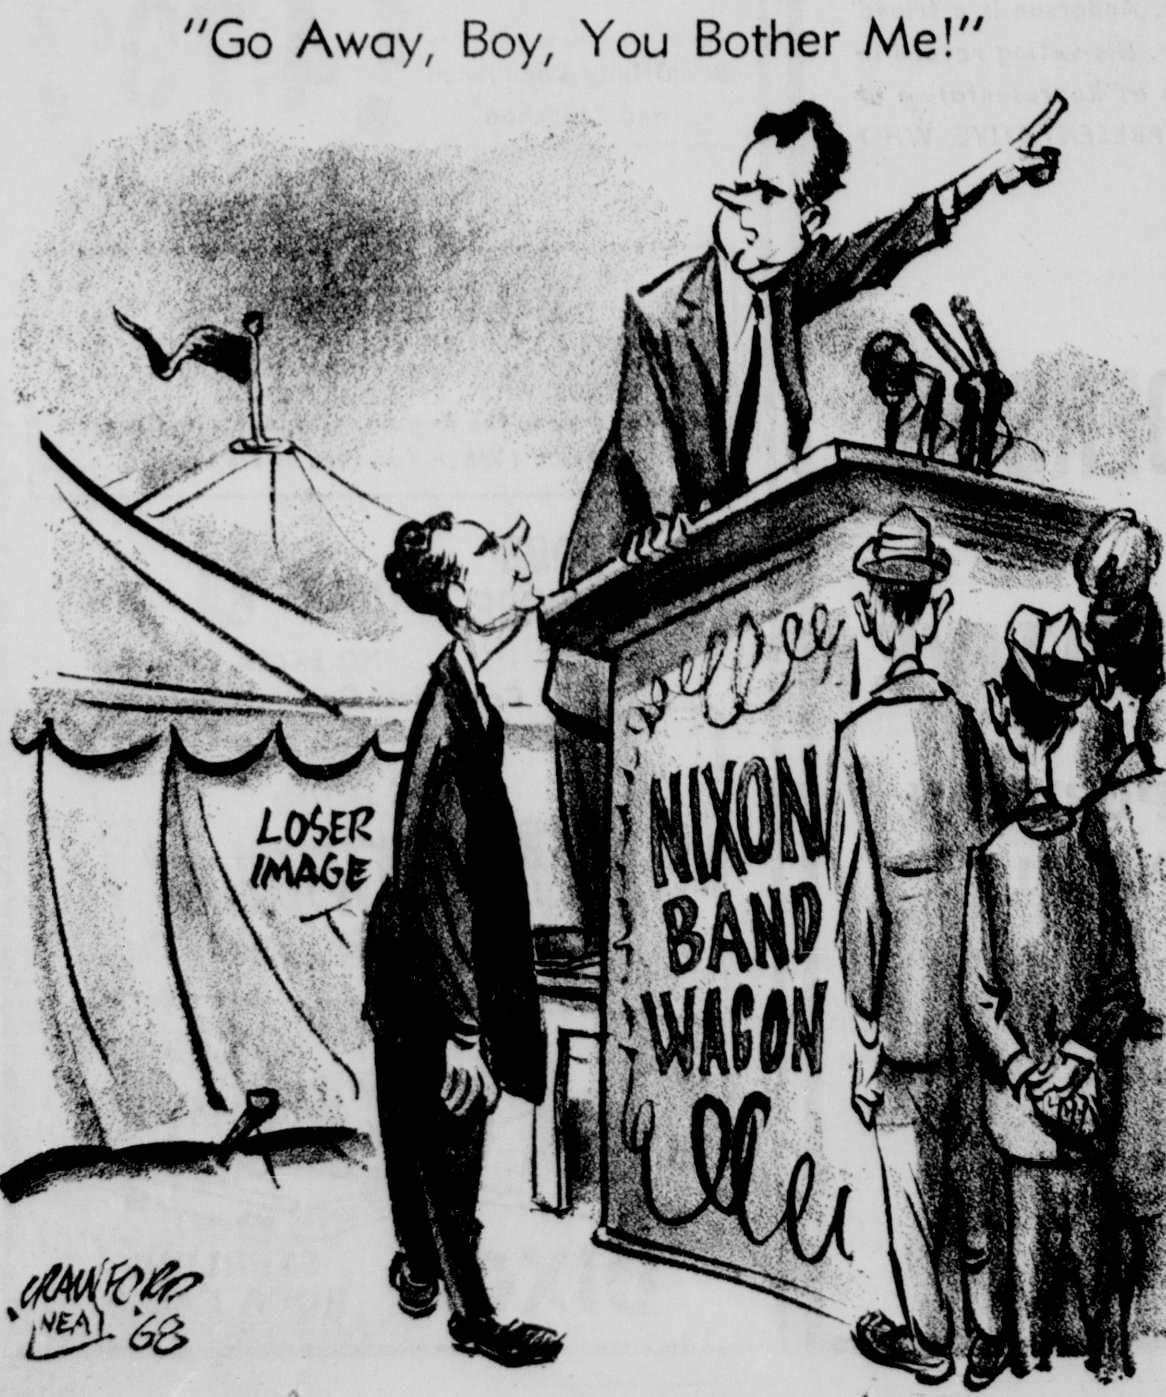

Kennedy children romping on the south lawn would guarantee crowds of the curious gazing through the barred fence like Sunday afternoon at National Zoo.

"The senator is very protective about his children in that respect," said an RFK staff member. "He prefers to keep them out of the public eye."

Since keeping Kennedy children inside is unthinkable, it may be that an RFK administration would mean at least current maintenance of nearby Hickory Hill, with horse-riding, football, fresh air and playtime out of the reach of public scrutiny.

And garage roofs to jump on to.

Schedule for New Season At Playhouse

"A Thousand Clowns," Herb Gardner's comedy based on the experiences of a nonconformist television writer who attempts to provide a home for his precocious nephew, will open the seventh summer season at Timber Lake Playhouse, Mount Carroll.

The first performance, on June 14, will be attended by invited guests and tickets will be available for public presentations of the show scheduled for June 15 through June 23.

"Brigadoon," the popular musical by Lerner and Loewe, is planned for June 26-30 and July

2-7, and the costume comedy by Christopher Fry dealing with 15th century witchcraft, "The Lady's Not for Burning," will run July 10-14 and will replace "A Man for All Seasons," which has been withdrawn by the play's New York producers.

"A Majority of One," the Leonard Spigelgass comedy concerning a Jewish widow from Brooklyn who accompanies her daughter-in-law on a delicate diplomatic mission to Japan, will be presented by playhouse actors July 17-28, excluding July 22.

"The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," a moving drama by William Inge, is planned for July 31-Aug. 4, and "Any Wednesday" has been chosen as the replacement for previously announced performances of "Cactus Flower," which has also been removed from summer stock availability.

To be given nightly Aug. 7-11 and Aug. 13-18, "Any Wednesday" will be followed by the sophisticated musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," to run Aug. 21 through Aug. 31 with the exception of Aug. 26.

Performances of Edward Al-bee's explosive drama, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," scheduled for Sept. 4-8, will conclude the season.

Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. daily except Sunday when shows will begin at 7:30 p.m. Eight-admission booklets are available and can be used by one or eight individuals, according to Ralph Hough, Mount Carroll, playhouse president.

Timber Lake also sponsors a popular "club plan," and additional information concerning all admission regulations may be obtained by writing the playhouse, Box 29, Mount Carroll.

For her wedding, the bride chose an A-line gown fashioned of white crepe and accented by a jewel neckline edged with pastel blue and green embroidery. Rosepoint lace bordered her elbow-length mantilla and she carried a single long-stemmed white rose as she approached the church altar with her father.

Miss Melanie Sue Johnson and Miss Linda Kay Johnson, who attended their sister as maid of honor and bridesmaid, were attired in identical full-length gowns of pastel blue crepe complemented by matching head-dresses, and their flowers were single red roses.

Attending Mr. Axel as best man was Mark Lazerwith, Chicago; Emil Wuensche, Chicago, acted as groomsmen, and ushers for the ceremony were the bride's brothers, Paul and Neal Johnson, Batavia.

Fighting Flares Near Viet Capitol

SAIGON (UPI) — Heavy fighting flared on three sides of Saigon today. One battle broke out near a suburban military officers club where a company of Viet Cong holed up in a string of burning houses, U.S. spokesmen said today.

The estimated 60 to 70 guerrillas occupied the houses in Gia Dinh, Saigon's northern suburb early in the day and three companies of South Vietnamese troops with American advisers moved in to drive them out.

Elsewhere Communist gunners shot down four U.S. aircraft in South Vietnam. But North Vietnamese missilemen failed in a rare attempt at hitting B52 bombers with a guided missile, U.S. officials said.

Missed Planes

The radar-guided rocket streaked aloft from a launch site somewhere in the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but it missed the B52s flying bomb runs against North Vietnamese positions.

Other fighting near Gia Dinh today was in suburban Vo Gap near the Tan Son Nhut airport and South Vietnamese authorities imposed a 24-hour curfew to keep civilians off the streets.

Earlier in the day American and government troops fought in scattered clashes in the southern and northwestern outskirts of the capital.

To the northwest, nine miles from the city, U.S. 25th Infantry Division troops killed 12 guerrillas in a clash with a force of unknown size.

On the southern outskirts a Viet Cong squad struck a small bridge guarded by Americans from the U.S. 9th Infantry Division. The defenders drove the attack back and into an ambush set up by Vietnamese national policemen.

Casualty Toll

The spokesmen said at least 14 guerrillas died and U.S. casualties were put at one killed and five wounded.

Two fighter-bombers—a U.S. Air Force prop-driven A1 Skyraider and a U.S. Marine A4 Skyhawk—were shot down in the vicinity of Tam Ky in the northern provinces of South Vietnam.

Elsewhere in the northern sector two helicopters crashed after they were hit by ground fire. A fifth aircraft, a C123 cargo plane, crashed due to unknown causes.

The North Vietnamese missile launching at B52 operating near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam was evidence of stepped-up Communist anti-aircraft activity in the area.

The B52s were attacking troop concentrations and ammunition hiding places near the DMZ in connection with renewed North Vietnamese activity in the area.

V.C. Occupy Houses

Around Saigon sharp clashes developed with Viet Cong guerrillas occupying houses around a swimming pool and a theater in Gia Dinh, a northern suburb of the capital city, military spokesmen said.

Two companies of South Vietnamese Marines, backed by U.S. Army helicopter gunships, moved against the guerrillas.

There was no immediate report of casualties in the fight.

The loss of the two fighter-bombers in the south today brought to 266 the total number of fixed-wing planes shot down in South Vietnam thus far in the war, officials said.

They said the pilot of the Air Force Skyraider was killed when it went down at a point about 16 miles west of Tam Ky. The Marine pilot of the downed A4 Skyhawk ejected and was rescued unhurt, they said.

One of the two helicopters shot down was a U.S. Marine Corps CH46 struck by a mortar shell near Hoi An, 350 miles north of Saigon. Four crewmen were wounded.

The second helicopter, an OH6 observation craft, was hit by machinegun fire 12 miles west southwest of Dak To in the

Percy Urges Scout Expansion

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., challenged scout leaders Friday night to take scouting into the ghetto areas to give the slum youths "an alternative to the jungle code they live by."

Percy told the annual national convention of the Boy Scouts of America, that, "The achievements of the past will not save the youth of our slums, or bring the races and generations together. We have to do it by understanding the revolutionary times in which we live."

Referring to the investigations which led to the "Crime in the Streets" bill passed Thursday by the Senate, the Republican senator said, "We were shocked to learn that most crime is committed by boys and young men."

"Much of it is in the inner city," Percy said. "And most of it is against the poor."

"We must show these young people there is another code," he said, "a more effective code, than the jungle code they have lived by in the streets of our urban areas today."

Scouting can offer that alternative, Percy said. But to do it, "scouting has to adapt — and it may have to change in many respects."

Oregon Council Declines To Discuss Permit

OREGON — Councilmen meeting Friday night declined to discuss the request of the Standard Oil Company to construct a gas station and break curbing at the intersection of Fourth and Washington Streets where the old Sunnyside Hotel now stands.

Standard officials had first presented the request to the council and when permission was denied a second request was presented Clarence Lumsden, commissioner of health and safety.

The issue was not discussed because of the absence of Mayor Harry Wade and councilmen agreed to hold no discussion or take any action unless all council members and the mayor are present.

Shortly after the first request to construct the station was presented to the council Oregon citizens began circulating petitions objecting to the location of the station. Citizens have also appeared at past council meetings to voice their disapproval and present petitions bearing hundreds of signatures.

Reasons for objecting to the location were heavy traffic at that particular corner which is where Ill. 2 and Ill. 64 intersect; that it would be a hazard to pedestrians and would create traffic problems as well as detract from the appearance of the business district.

The council in other action voted to add 15 traffic signs in the city and announced a notice had been received from the federal government for the final $12,741 payment for the sewer plant expansion program. The federal share of the project was $127,417.

They also agreed to purchase decorations for the city hall for Oregon's 125th anniversary celebration.

Central Highlands and exploded, killing its two crewmen.

The three-man crew of the C123, operating at the southern tip of South Vietnam, were listed as missing.

100 Copters Destroyed

Not far south of the DMZ, at Camp Evans where the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division has headquarters, a single Communist rocket set off explosions that knocked out 100 helicopters and flattened almost every structure on the base, U.S. spokesmen said Friday.

They said the Soviet-designed 122 MM rocket had temporarily incapacitated the vital base, 16 miles northwest of Hue. The attack occurred Sunday, the officials said, but for security reasons public disclosure was not made until Friday.

Exact casualty totals in the attack were not disclosed but officials described them as "light."

Jordan, Israel Exchange Fire

By United Press International
Jordanian and Israeli troops fired at each other across the Jordan River with tanks and artillery for more than two hours today. It was the 24th outbreak of fighting along the truce line this month.

A Jordanian military spokesman charged Israeli troops opened fire first with tanks on Jordanian troops near the Al-Mundassah Bridge in the southern Jordan valley.

After the fight had progressed almost two hours, the Israelis moved in artillery and shelled the bridge and the nearby Al-Karama area, the Jordanian spokesman said.

Jordan said its troops fired back.

"Our artillery put the enemy artillery positions out of action," the Jordanian spokesman said. Jordan suffered no losses, he said.

The spokesman said one Israeli artillery position was set afire and destroyed and that Israeli ambulances carried away wounded.

Israel said its forces suffered no casualties. The Jerusalem report said the Jordanians opened fire on Israeli forces near the Umm-Short Bridge in the Jordan valley and after an interval shelled the area for 90 minutes.

Al-Karama was the scene of the most serious clash this year when Israeli troops backed by tanks and jet fighter planes swept across the Jordanian border and attacked a Palestinian El Fatah guerrilla base last March.

Non-Candidates Will Determine Vote Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Absentee opponents are spooking the visible ones as they go into the final laps of campaigning for the Oregon Republican and Democratic presidential primaries.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, for instance, won't be on the ballot in the Democratic contest Tuesday but there is a strong effort being made by organized labor to drum up support for him.

President Johnson is listed among the Democratic contenders despite his March 31 statement that he won't accept another term. The AFL-CIO is urging Democrats to vote for Johnson to show they back Humphrey.

On the Republican side, the most potent unseen is California Gov. Ronald Reagan. Reagan hasn't campaigned in Oregon but his name is on the ballot and his people are in their pitching for him.

Political handicappers figure the GOP winner will be Richard M. Nixon and Nixon agrees.

Arriving Friday to unleash an abbreviated campaign, he said he figures he'll take 55 per cent of the Republican vote, Reagan will get about 25 per cent and the leftovers, about 15 to 20 per cent, will go as write-ins to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. Rockefeller is another of those who are not campaigning in Oregon but trying to put a hex on their opponents from afar.

Rockefeller campaigned in Georgia and South Carolina Friday and will go after Republican decision-makers next week in Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming.

The governor said Nixon and Kennedy are talking on both sides of too many issues.

Damages Will Be Assessed

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro Friday announced he has received word from President Johnson that a disaster assistance coordinator has been sent to Illinois to discuss damage caused by recent tornadoes.

In a telegram, Johnson said, "Detailed damage assessments have been initiated to determine requirements for assistance."

The coordinator is scheduled to consult with Col. Donovan M. Vance, state Civil Defense director and other state officials.

Shapiro earlier in the week had asked for assistance for eight central Illinois counties suffering from millions of dollars in damage from tornadoes, high winds and flooding.

Ex-Policemen Are Sentenced

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two former Chicago policemen, convicted of forcing a motorist to pay them $28, Friday were sentenced to one year in prison.

Charles F. Burke, 36, and Robert T. Keeler, 30, were released on $2,500 appeal bond after sentencing by Criminal Court Judge F. Emmett Morrissey.

Robert Thomas, 23, Chicago, complained to the police Internal Inspections Division that the two officers stopped him for running a red light last Sept. 7.

He said they demanded $175 in cash, a $53 check and forced him to withdraw $600 from his bank after telling him he had an invalid license.

Morrissey said, "This is one of the worst cases I've ever heard, taking advantage of a frightened citizen." Keeler has resigned from the force and Burke was under suspension pending outcome of the trial.

Center To Move

The Mississippi Mental Health Center, over the weekend, will move to its new quarters located on U.S. Alt. 30, about four miles west of Dixon.

The center will open Monday at the new location where the telephone number will be 284-6611.

"I'm not attacking anyone as such," he insisted. "I'm just trying to show the differences where they exist. I think someone who talks liberal policy in the East and conservative policy in the West isn't going to attract the confidence we need for national unity."

Meanwhile, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, complained that his fellow Democratic contenders, Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, have all but stopped discussing issues.

They are concentrating only on "cold victory," he charged.

The Minnesotan drew a crowd of about 7,000 Friday night at the University of Oregon and again challenged Kennedy to meet him in face-to-face debate before the votes are cast Tuesday.

Kennedy, whose strategy in recent days has been to act as if McCarthy didn't exist, is not expected to take the bait. When he throws a verbal punch these days, it's at Humphrey—as Kennedy calls him, "my opponent the vice president."

Kennedy wrote a new chapter in the history of American political shenanigans Friday when he shunned his suit and went swimming in his undershorts in the chilly surf at Astoria.

Before his 10-minute dip he

Sterling Wins 39th NCIC Track Crown

Maxvill Blasts Homer Stadium Is in Danger

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sport Writer

Busch Memorial Stadium, a magnificent two-year-old sports palace, is on shaky ground now that Dal Maxvill is knocking down fences.

Maxvill, the slick-fielding, non-hitting shortstop for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, began demolition proceedings Friday night when for only the second time in his major league career he hit a fair ball into the seats. The last stadium in which he did that didn't last more than a year.

"When I hit that first one in the Polo Grounds," recalled Maxvill with impish glee, "they tore the park down."

Maxvill's third career homer (the second was an inside-the-park job last season) capped the biggest display of power by the Cards since the first week of the season as St. Louis slugged three homers and emerged from a long scoring drought with a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Flood Begins Attack

Curt Flood began the blasting with a two-run shot in the first and Johnny Edwards and Maxvill connected for successive homers in the seventh. It marked the first game in which the Cards have hit three homers since April 14 and the first game in which they have scored as many as five runs since May 4.

San Francisco remained a game ahead of the Cards by beating Chicago 4-2, Los Angeles topped Houston 9-7 in 10, Pittsburgh pounded Cincinnati 8-5 and Atlanta defeated New York 4-2.

Baltimore swept a double-header from Washington 5-3 and 3-2 in American League action. Elsewhere, Boston battered Minnesota 9-7, California clipped Cleveland 2-1, New York edged Chicago 1-0 in 13 innings and Detroit and Oakland played to a 2-2 tie in a game halted by rain after seven innings.

Maxvill's home run was a shock to everyone on the Cards, especially his understudy, Dick Schofield, who fell off the bench at the sight of the blast.

Mays Passes Speaker

Willie Mays moved into sole possession of fourth place on the all-time total bases list, breaking a tie with Tris Speaker, by stroking a run-scoring single in the first inning and Juan Marichal became the major leagues' first seven-game winner as the Giants won their fourth straight game. Mays also singled in the ninth to run his career total bases to 5,103.

Bob Bailey became the Dodger hero for the second successive day as he blasted a three-run homer to highlight a five-run 10th inning and spark Los Angeles to its fourth straight triumph. Bailey, whose 11th-inning single gave the Dodgers a 3-2 win over St. Louis Thursday, socked his homer off Don Wilson with two on and two out and the score tied 4-4.

The Pirates hammered out 10 hits, including a two-run homer by Roberto Clemente, to beat the Reds as relief ace Ron Kline pitched 4 2-3 scoreless innings. Kline extended his string of scoreless innings to 21 over a seven-game span. Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer for the Reds in the fourth.

Lanky Ron Reed, a former pro basketball player, posted his sixth victory without a defeat in besting the Mets' rookie sensation Nolan Ryan with relief help from Jim Britton in the ninth.

Foster Defeats Tiger for Title

By WILLIAM VERIGAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Foster is poorer by $21,000 today, but he doesn't mind because that was the price of winning the light heavyweight title from old soldier Dick Tiger.

Foster crashed through the Biafran's crouching defense with a right uppercut and left hook to knock out Tiger in the fourth round Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

The 6-foot-3½ inch challenger from Washington, D.C., opened the first round by spearing Tiger with his long left, but late in the round, Tiger suddenly made Foster wince from a series of punches to the body.

That was the only time the crowd of 11,547 had much chance to cheer for the 38-year-old Tiger, a sentimental favorite but a 12-5 underdog in the betting.

Hook Does It

After spearing away contentedly at Tiger for the next two rounds and piling up points on the scorecards, Foster unleashed a combination in the fourth round that staggered Tiger and then finished him off with a snaking left hook.

"Now I know how those guys felt that I knocked out," said the squat Tiger, smiling even in defeat. "His long reach bothered me, but he says he'll give me a rematch. If he will, I'd like to fight him again."

It was the 16th loss against 58 wins and three draws for Tiger, who held the middleweight title twice before losing it the final time to Emile Griffith in 1966. Although many had considered him washed up after the loss, Tiger came back to win the light heavy crown from Jose Torres and successfully defended it against Torres and Roger Rouse.

Tiger Outclassed

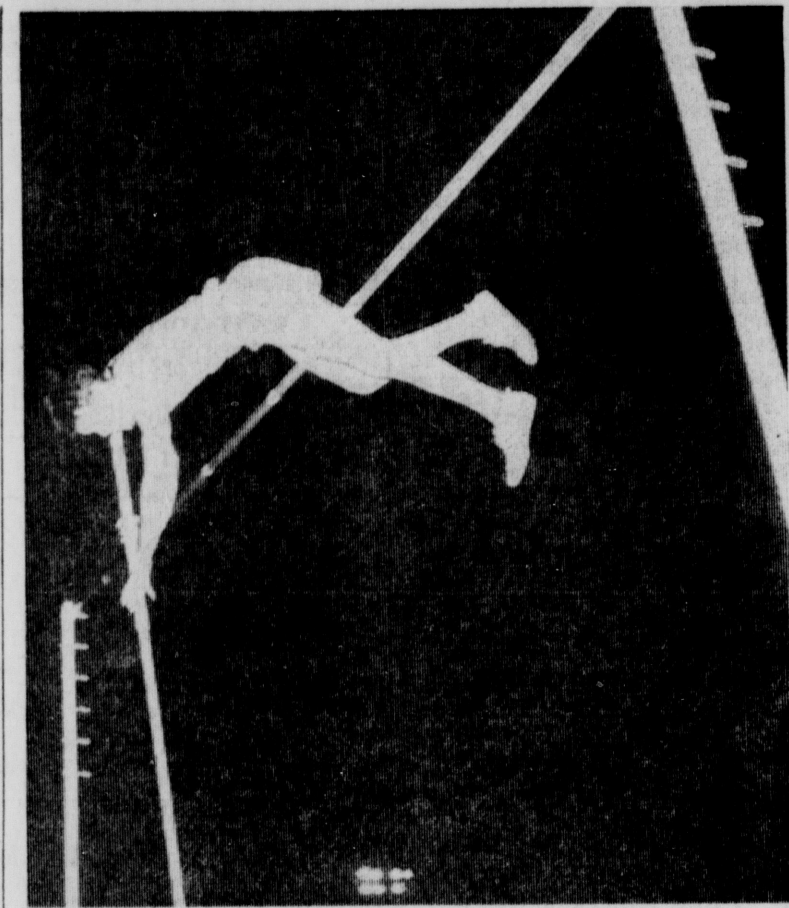

He seemed to be outclassed against the giant Foster. However, Foster had an eight-inch advantage in reach and was 7½ inches taller. He also had a reputation as a puncher, making Tiger his 24th kayo victim.

Although Foster was given 60 per cent of the receipts, he lost $21,000 for the evening's work. The net receipts, including television revenue, amounted to $132,000, meaning that Foster was given about $79,000. But to get the bout, he had to guarantee Tiger $100,000, and the difference will have to come out of his financial backer's pockets.

"I been fighting too long without making much money," said Foster, a father of four, "but it don't bother me now because I get the big share next time."

He said that he hoped his first defense would be against Eddie "Bossman" Jones, who probably will move up to the No. 1 contender spot. "He been talking too much," said Foster about Jones.

"Tiger's a nice guy," said Foster "and he's been fair to me. I'll give him a second chance because he gave me a chance."

Winning Vault and Measurement
Pictured above is Dixon's newly crowned NCIC pole vault champion Skip Jones as he clears the bar at 13-7½. The vault not only established a new NCIC mark, but also bettered the existing DHS record of 13-5 by Jones earlier this season. Below the photo of Jones, is Chuck Sisson, official at the NCIC meet, who is caught in the act of measuring the record vault by Jones.

Preparations for 500 Reaching Hectic Stages

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Preparations for the rich 500-mile Memorial Day auto race reached the hectic stage today as almost 50 drivers battled for 17 available spots in the final weekend of qualifications.

Regardless of who makes it and who will be left on the sidelines, it will be the fastest 33-car field in the 52-year history of the Memorial Day classic, which this year will slice up a $750,000 jackpot.

The 16 cars that qualified last weekend averaged better than 167 miles an hour, and although this average will go down somewhat, the consensus in the garage area was it will take a speed of no less than 163.5 m.p.h. to get into the race.

The slowest car last year checked in at 162.543 m.p.h., and the slowest so far this time, driven by Jochen Rindt of Austria, averaged 164.144 m.p.h.

Last year's field averaged a record 164.173 m.p.h.

After dismal weather conditions most of the week, forecasters promised near ideal weather for both today and Sunday.

Mostly fair with the temperature near 70 was today's forecast, and somewhat warmer but more cloudy was expected Sunday.

Only a 5 per cent chance of rain was foreseen for today, and more than 100,000 fans were expected to watch the third day of the trials. Qualifications were scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. (EST).

The one-and-four-lap records of better than 171 m.p.h. by Joey Leonard in a turbine-powered machine last Saturday were considered safe, but the field of "have nots" seeking starting berths included an array of speedway veterans, among them Arnie Knepper, Bud Tinglestad, Mel Kenyon, Johnny Rutherford, Bill Cheesbourg, Al Miller, George Snider, Ronnie Duman and Grand Prix Grand Champion Denis Hulme of New Zealand.

Less than 3 hours of practice time were available Friday under less than perfect weather conditions. But 34 cars took advantage of last-day running before the final weekend of the trials.

What the Grip Can Do

People think that once a golfer attains professional status, he acquires some kind of divine inspiration and his game automatically jells. I have the same problems as an 80-shooter. And that's why I must keep reverting to fundamentals in analyzing my game.

Start with the grip. My left hand gets much too strong at various times. I have to fight it continually. The left hand moves too far to the right on the club. I have to keep the thumb on top, or to the left.

So I'm continually checking my grip, especially when I get into what I call my over-the-top hooking game.

All my life, until three years ago, I was a relatively weak guy who was never able to hit the ball far enough. That's how I developed a strong left-hand grip. It gives you a more powerful shot off the club, but it also comes off driving with a hink. Subconsciously, as a kid, I fell into this habit to get more distance off the tee.

Now a guy like Nicklaus, he never had to—he could afford to keep his hands on top—because he had the strength. He doesn't need a strong grip.

Jack is different in one respect though—he uses an interlocking grip, with the first finger of his left hand hooked around the little finger of his right. That's be-

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Defenseman Joe Watson of the Philadelphia Flyers began a week of convalescence today following a shoulder operation performed on him Friday.

Watson was bothered by the injury throughout the past season but decided to wait until now to undergo the surgery. He will be hospitalized for about a week.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association Friday chose four players from supplementary college draft lists and added them to their roster.

The four were 6-foot-3 George Hicker of Syracuse, 6-6 Terry Allenton of Baldwin-Wallace, 6-7 Bernie Foster of Pasadena College and 6-5 Frank Standard of South Carolina.

Dukes Place Fifth, Jones Sets Mark

STERLING — The host team, Sterling, walked away with the NCIC conference track meet held here Friday afternoon and evening, while the Purple and White-clad Dukes finished fifth in the varsity division of the meet and fourth in the sophomore division.

Highlight of the meet for DHS fans in the stands at Sterling's Stadium was Skip Jones' 13-7½ vault in the pole vaulting, establishing a new conference and Dixon High School record.

Last season, Jones was the runnerup to champ on Mike Berontes, who established the mark of 13-5½. Many people were a bit undecided as to what kind of performance Jones would have after suffering through the State Tournament last week, when he failed to make 13-4, the qualifying height for final competition.

Skip was actually in third place at the time of his winning vault, according to his misses at lower heights. Four members of the vaulting teams from the NCIC schools cleared the bar at 13-4, thus setting the state for Jones and his record breaker. Skip then attempted 13-10, but barely missed all three opportunities at clearing the height.

Doug Folk was another of the DHS Thinclads to work his way into the finals of a running event, as he claimed the fifth-place ribbon in the 120-yard high hurdle event. Doug is only a junior, and unfortunately will be moving from Dixon this summer and will not compete for the Dukes next spring.

Sprinter Larry Untiedt gathered a fourth- and a third-place finish in his specialties, the 100- and 220-yard dashes. After running second to Sterling's Gordon Harris throughout the preliminaries all afternoon, Untiedt appeared to be ready for the finals that night, but several other sprinters were just a little bit more rested than Larry and were able to move past him in the finals of the two events.

Tony Mercer helped the Sterling cause as he nipped an Ottawa runner at the finish line in the mile to pick up the fourth-place honors in this event. Tom Swan of Princeton, the reigning State Champion, was far out in front in this event although he only ran a 4:26 mile, far below his 4:13 timing in the State finals a week earlier.

Doug Bogott picked up the final Dixon points, as the senior middle-distance man ran an outstanding 880, placing third in a tough field. Bogott ran the best he has all season long in this event with a 2:01 timing.

Only two double winners were in the field of athletes Friday evening, as Sterling's Gordy Harris won both the 100- and 220-yard dashes, while Princeton's Bob Miller broke the long-jump record with a leap of 22-11½ and then tied the 440-yard dash mark of 49.8 to place his name on the record books for the second time in the meet.

Frosh-Soph

The Dixon Dukelets placed fourth in a tough sophomore conference, held in conjunction with the varsity meet at Sterling. The Dukelets scored a total of 21 points in the meet, compared to the 66 for Sterling, 32 for Geneseo and 26 for third-place Princeton.

Placing highly for the Dukelets were Miller in the discus, Baker in the pole vault, Schuler in the shot, Swarts in the mile and Fane in the low hurdle.

Fane was the lone first-place winner for the local sophomore team, as he captured a first place in the 120-yard low hurdles in a time of 14.1.

California Relays Set

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Australia's greatest distance runner, Ron Clarke, and such American champions as Tommy Seagren and two record-threatening 400-yard relay teams headline tonight's annual California Relays.

The meet is another leading up to the national college and AAU championships and the Olympic Trials. However, an international field flavors tonight's meet.

The pressure is mounting for the runners, jumpers and throwers of track and field.

The Modesto meet in its 26 years has produced 25 world records, set or tied. What the 1968 edition produces remains to be seen.

Australia's Clarke, regarded as the greatest long distance runner in history, is entered in the 5,000-meter run. His chief opponent is Gerry Lindgren of Washington State University.

Australia's Clarke, regarded as the greatest long distance runner in history, is entered in the 5,000-meter run. His chief opponent is Gerry Lindgren of Washington State University.

The University of Southern California has entered a large team, including McCullough in the high hurdles, in which he is the co-holder of the world record of 13.2. He is also set to go in the long jump and as part of its world record 440-relay team, which has done 39.3 on three occasions this year.

McCullough won the Pacific-high hurdle title in 13.4 seconds — a meet record—but tonight's competition in the 120-yard event will be experienced hands Blaine Lindgren, Richmond Flowers and Willie Davenport, the 1964 Olympic champion at Tokyo.

The Trojan 440 relay team of McCullough, Fred Kuller, O. J. Simpson and Lennox Miller, set the world mark at 38.6 last year. They face the Santa Clara Valley Youth Village team anchored by Tommie Smith. That team has run 39.5, sixth fastest on record.

Southern Cal's Seagren will be aiming for 18-feet in the pole vault. At the West Coast Relays in Fresno two weeks ago, Seagren did 17-6¼, third best mark of all time.
